Fratrick, Mathews recall 25 years of service in Appomattox

two years in King William County. Met his wife while teaching; she was teaching at Brookville in Lynchburg. After the two years of teaching he attended the University of Virginia for one year and the Medical College of Virginia for four years.

Following his period of teaching he spent two years in service working as administrator in a hospital in Amarillo, Texas. He did his internship in Roanoke Memorial Hospital.

In addition he is a member of the American Medical Association, Member and past president of the Piedmont Chapter Virginia Academy Family Physicians; member of Board of Virginia Academy of Family Practice; past Chairman of Professional Relations Committee; Preceptor and Associate member of Faculty of University of Virginia Medical School, Lynchburg Family Practice Resident Program; Member American Academy of Family Physicians; Certified Diplomat American Board of Family Physicians; Charter Member of American Academy of Family Physicians; member and past board member of Lynchburg Academy of Medicine; member Medical Society of Virginia.

He is a member and past senior warden St. Anne's Episcopal Church.

Hobbies include bird hunting; amateur radio, license WD4BPW; wood working, refinishing furniture and last but not least "Grease Monkey"...repairing and maintaining his two Volkswagons.

In answer to the question, Of what are you most proud? Jack Mathews had this to say, "I am proud of my family and of healthy, intelligent well-behaved grandchildren; of maintaining diplomatic professional status, renewed every six years, the only medical group requiring evidence of competency every six years by examination; community service, professional and non-professional and last but not least, settling in 'God's Country'," Jack concluded.

Mathews and his wife, the former Hattie Grace Harris of Lunenburg County, Virginia, have three children and six grandchildren.

Fratrick went through high school taking all the vocational courses he could get. Three of these four years were filled with courses dealing with electricity. "I wanted to be an electrical engineer," he said, "I didn't take any Latin and only a minimum chemistry and physics. Then when I got into college I had to take three years of Latin and one year of Algebra with no credit."

After graduation from high school, Fratrick entered the navy in 1945 and remained until 1947. Following his time in service he went to school on the GI Bill, graduating from Franklin School of Science and Arts, a two year course.

He worked as lab technician, ending up in a Hot Springs Hospital.

"If it hadn't been for Ginny I couldn't have made it. She was working as a registered nurse," Al said.

While in college Ginny asked her husband, "Why don't you go on to medical school?" The more Al Fratrick thought about being a doctor, the better it sounded, so medical school it had to be.

Fratrick attended the University of Richmond graduating in 1956 with a BS in Chemistry.

"I worked three jobs while in college. I worked as a lab technician at St. Luke's Hospital in Richmond; technician for Virginia Blood Bank in Richmond and worked as Obstetric extern while a medical student," Al said.

Graduating from the Medical College of Virginia in 1958 Fratrick went on to do his internship at Roanoke Memorial Hospital.

Fellow American Academy of Family Physicians, Specialty Board Certification, American Board of Family Practice, 1973; Specialty Board Re-certification, American Board of Family Practice, 1980; Visiting practitioner and preceptor, University of Virginia, Family Practice Program; Preceptor, MCV, Family Practice Program; Preceptor, Lynchburg Family Practice Resident Program; Clinical assistant professor of Family Medicine, Lynchburg Program '82 to '85.

He is associate staff member at Virginia Baptist Hospital, Lynchburg General Hospital and Southside Community Hospital, Farmville.

In addition he is a member of American Medical Association, Medical Society of Virginia, Lynchburg Academy of Medicine, American Academy of Family Practice, Virginia Academy of Family Practice, Piedmont Chapter, Virginia Academy of Family Practice, Virginia Lung Association, and Southern Medical Association.

Other associations and appointments include Medical Examiner, Appomattox County, Medical Advisor and Instructor, Appomattox County Rescue Squad; Board of Directors, Appomattox Unit, American Cancer Society, Appomattox County School Board, 1970-1986; former Chairman Blue Ridge Emergency Medical Services Council,, Inc. 1973-80, member Falling River Country Club, member, former president, Appomattox Lions Club; member, former chairman Parish Council, Our Lady of Peace Catholic Church; past member of board Central Virginia Speech and Hearing Center and board of directors of Appomattox Heart Association.

Fratrick's hobbies include hunting, fishing, tennis and gardening. "Especially gardening", he emphasized.

Fratrick and his wife, the former Ginny Matheny of Clifton Forge, Va., have four children and 4 grandchildren.

A lot of memorable things have happened to the two doctors since coming to Appomattox to practice medicine.

"At the beginning of our practice we did OB (delivered babies). I remember one night distinctly. It was very late and I got a call. It was really cold and I had to travel a good distance out in the county. I drove the car as far as I could and was met by a man on a tractor with a lantern. I climbed on the tractor, holding onto the tractor with one hand and holding my little black bag with the other. The house had no electricity. I delivered that baby by kerosene lamp," Fratrick said.

Sometimes the experiences were more frightening, even to a trained, capable doctor.

"Approximately 10 years ago I was called out on an emergency case...a tractor accident near Vera. A man had his leg caught in a piece of farm machinery. The machine had kept grinding away on the man's leg until the leg was caught above the knee. There was nothing to do but amputate and all I had was a pocket knife. The man was in a state of shock. I had to go ahead, taking off the leg with my knife," said Fratrick.

When asked what areas of his practice he found most rewarding, Fratrick said, "I see the elderly, talk with them and listen. That's important, that you listen. They (the elderly) have specials needs. They need somebody to care, somebody to talk and take interest in them."

"One of the the things that has impressed me the most about Appomattox people was their willingness to help us when we came here. They were good friends then and have continued to be our friends," Fratrick commented.

In July of 1977 another dedicated doctor, Kenneth Powell joined the team of Fratrick and Mathews. He became a partner in the firm in July of 1978.

Fratrick and Mathews, with a total of 50 years of medical service to Appomattox have done much not only for Appomattox but the surrounding areas as well. Their dedication is felt throughout the area. But it hasn't been all giving...

"I have learned more from the patients than I could ever have taught them," said Mathews. "I've learned how to live, how to enjoy life, how to get the most out of what you do. I've learned about happiness and I've learned about dying. A woman who knew she was dying and talked about it...she wasn't afraid and she taught me a lot. I owe my patients a lot," Mathews concluded.

In March of 1970 the doctors moved into a new building on Court Street and Virginia Avenue. In September of 1977 the team of doctors, by this three, moved into the new section of their building on Court Street.

"It doesn't seem like it's been 25 years," said Fratrick with a laugh. "I don't think I'm that old."

Once again, 4-H'ers from East Central District, enjoyed a fun-filled week at Holiday Lake 4-H Educational Center. The week was filled with various activities in which the campers participated.

In order to recognize individuals who have participated in the activities, demonstrated good sportsmanship, and have been an asset to the camp, the Extension Agents and Camp Staff select an individual who possesses these qualities. For the week of July 9-13, 1984, two 4-H'ers were selected for this honor, Jennifer White and Vincent Pannell, both of Appomattox.

Jennifer (left) is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry White and has been a 4-H'er for two years. Her family is now living in Lancaster Pennsylvania.

reduction percentage, acreage reduction, set-aside or land diversion program provisions. Comments should include a recommended level for these requirements. Current law stipulates that if USDA estimates the quantity of corn on hand in the United States on Sept. 30, 1985 will exceed 1.1 billion bushels, a cash land diversion program of not less than five percent must be provided and an acreage reduction program may be provided.

Comments are also requested on the provisions of the grain reserve, appropriate loan and purchase levels, the target price, the national program acreage, whether haying and grazing should be allowed on acreage conservation reserve land, and whether offsetting compliance should be required if an acreage reduction or set-aside program is necessary.

The 1984 feed grain program contained a 10 percent acreage reduction program provision. All farmers with an established base who planted feed grain could participate in the voluntary program. Those who complied with the program provisions were eligible for deficiency payments and price support loans.

Other 1985 program decisions are whether barley should be determined eligible for payment under the program, whether making barley should be exempt from any acreage reduction provisions, whether program contracts should be binding after signup and whether loans and purchases should be made available to producers who cut their corn for silage.

Comments on the 1985 program should be mailed to Dr. Howard C. Williams, Director, Analysis Division, USDA-ASCS, Room 3741S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.
